

Agentic AI Implementation Brief

Regional Amplifier Channels for the Tri-County Marketing & Business Support Landing Site

Prepared for implementation on the current Netlify landing site. Version date: 2026-06-13.

Purpose

This brief gives step-by-step instructions for an agentic AI to incorporate verified mailing-list, newsletter, events-calendar, business-directory, visitor-guide, and regional promotion-channel research into the current landing site. The brief is written to reduce inferential inaccuracies, false claims, and unsupported promotion promises.

Terminology

The page may be called a landing site if it functions as the entry point for a broader guide, resource directory, templates, forms, and task workflows. If it remains a single static page, landing page is more precise. Public-facing recommendation: Tri-County Regional Resource Landing Site or Tri-County Marketing & Business Support Landing Site.

Non-Negotiable Constraint

Do not infer advertising availability, submission acceptance, costs, deadlines, list ownership, audience size, or endorsement.

Only classify a channel by evidence that is visible in the source.

If a source shows a newsletter signup, say newsletter/signup exists.

If a source shows a calendar, say calendar exists.

If a source shows a submit-event form, say submit-event pathway exists.

If a source does not explicitly say it accepts outside advertisements, mark paid ad status as Unknown - verify.

1. Required Site Placement

Add a new primary section to the landing site titled:

Regional Amplifier Channels: Newsletters, Calendars, Directories, and Visitor Guides

Place this section after the Start Here decision flow and before county-specific campaign recipes. This placement lets users first identify their goal, then immediately find channels where their event, listing, or announcement may travel.

2. Public-Facing Intro Copy

Regional Amplifier Channels are newsletters, events calendars, tourism websites, business directories, venue lineups, municipal update systems, and visitor-guide channels that can help a business, nonprofit, artist, or event organizer reach more people.

Some channels accept public event submissions. Some maintain business directories. Some offer newsletter signups, visitor-guide pathways, social media co-promotion, or paid advertising. Availability varies by organization, so each listing should be checked before use.

Use this section to identify where to submit your event, request a listing, ask about newsletter placement, or verify paid and free promotional opportunities.

3. Classification Rules

Tag	Use only when evidence shows	Do not claim
Verified calendar	A calendar, event page, or lineup exists.	That outside events are accepted unless a submission form/rule exists.
Verified newsletter/signup	The source uses subscribe, newsletter, sign up, mailing list, or updates language.	That third-party ads/submissions are accepted.
Verified directory	A business/member/listing directory exists.	That any business can be listed unless an add-listing form/rule exists.
Verified submission form	A form or explicit instruction accepts event/listing/marketing submissions.	That submission guarantees publication.
Promotion possible - verify	The channel has relevant audience reach but rules are unclear.	Any availability, pricing, or deadline.
Paid ad status unknown	No explicit ad-rate or paid-placement evidence is	That advertising is available.

	present.
Needs contact confirmation	Source exists but exact pathway is missing or stale.	Operational details.

4. Required Channel Table Format

Create a visible table on the landing site using this schema. Do not remove the Source URL or Verification columns; they are the anti-hallucination layer.

Column	Required content	Allowed values / notes
Channel	Name of organization, venue, tourism site, city page, or business.	Use exact public-facing name from source.
Area served	Town/county/region.	Use town + county where possible.
Channel type	Newsletter, event calendar, directory, visitor guide, venue lineup, social media co-op, etc.	Multiple values allowed.
What users can ask/submit	Plain-language action.	Example: Submit event, request listing, ask about ads, request calendar placement.
Best for	Use-case guidance.	Events, tourism-facing business, arts, lodging, nonprofit program, etc.
Paid/free status	Known status or uncertainty.	Use Unknown - verify unless source explicitly states.
Verification status	Evidence tag.	Use only approved status tags.
Source URL	Direct source URL.	Plain URL.
Implementation note	Caveat or instruction.	Keep concise.

5. Step-by-Step Implementation Instructions for Agent

Step 1 - Create the section shell

Add a page or anchor section named Regional Amplifier Channels. Place it after Start Here and before County Campaign Recipes. Add short intro copy and a warning that advertising availability must be verified.

Step 2 - Add filter/category cards

Create cards or tabs for Event Calendars, Newsletters & Mailing Lists, Business Directories, Tourism/Visitor Guides, Anchor Venue Lineups, and Ask About Advertising or Placement.

Step 3 - Add the master channel table

Use the required table schema. Populate only with verified rows in this brief. Do not add unsourced rows.

Step 4 - Add evidence tags

Each row must carry at least one evidence tag: Verified calendar, Verified newsletter/signup, Verified directory, Verified submission form, Promotion possible - verify, Paid ad status unknown, or Needs contact confirmation.

Step 5 - Add action language

For each row, phrase the action as ask/submit/request/verify. Avoid promise language such as advertise here, get featured, or guaranteed placement.

Step 6 - Add the promotion packet checklist

Insert the Before You Contact a Channel checklist below the table. This makes the section operational, not just informational.

Step 7 - Add the Ask About Placement template

Place the outreach email template below the checklist. Make it copy-paste ready.

Step 8 - Add a verification warning

Display a callout near the table: Paid advertising, free placement, editorial inclusion, deadlines, and approval rules must be verified directly with each organization.

Step 9 - Connect to templates

Link each use case to existing or new templates: calendar listing, event blurb, radio PSA, social caption, press release, directory listing request, and sponsor/funder recap.

Step 10 - Add QA pass

Check that no row says accepts ads, free ad, paid placement, newsletter submission, or guaranteed calendar listing unless the source explicitly says that. Otherwise use ask about or verify directly.

6. Before Contacting a Channel: Promotion Packet

Prepare a small promotion packet before contacting any calendar, newsletter, directory, visitor guide, or tourism partner.

Include:

- Event or business name
- Date, time, and location, if event-based
- One-sentence description
- 50-word description
- 100-word description
- Website, ticket link, or contact link
- Contact name, email, and phone
- Square image
- Vertical image
- Printable flyer, if available
- Accessibility notes
- Whether the item is free, ticketed, nonprofit, youth-focused, tourism-facing, or business-related

Do not send only a flyer image. Calendars and newsletters usually need plain text they can copy, searchable details, and a direct contact.

7. Submission Etiquette / Anti-Spam Note

Use these channels respectfully. Submit only relevant events, listings, or announcements. Check each organization's rules before sending materials. Do not assume a newsletter, calendar, or directory accepts paid ads, free listings, or outside submissions unless the source says so directly. When in doubt, ask what formats they accept.

8. Verified Channel Data to Implement

Populate the landing site table with the rows below. Keep source URLs visible or attached to each row. If space is limited on mobile, use expandable cards that preserve the same fields.

Subject: Question About Promotion / Advertising Opportunities

Hello,

I am reaching out to ask whether [organization/publication/site name] accepts event listings, newsletter submissions, business directory updates, paid advertisements, social media co-promotion, visitor-guide listings, or other community announcements.

The item I am hoping to promote is:

[Event/business/program name]
[Date/time, if applicable]
[Location]
[Short description]
[Website or contact link]

Could you let me know which formats you accept, whether there are deadlines, and whether any options are free or paid?

Thank you,
[Name]
[Organization]
[Phone/email]

11. Required QA Checks Before Publishing

- Every row has a source URL.
- Every row has a verification status tag.
- No row claims paid advertising is available unless source explicitly confirms it.
- No row claims free placement unless source explicitly confirms it.
- No row claims guaranteed publication or guaranteed event-calendar inclusion.
- All uncertain details are marked Unknown - verify or Needs contact confirmation.
- The public language says ask about advertising, request listing, submit event, or verify placement - not put your ads in these.
- Mobile view preserves source and verification information, even if the table collapses into cards.
- The methodology section explains how channels were found and classified.
- The correction/intake form lets users submit new amplifier channels or report changed information.

12. Minimal Agent Execution Order

1. Insert Regional Amplifier Channels section after Start Here.
2. Add category cards/tabs.
3. Add intro and disclaimer copy.
4. Add master channel table using required schema.
5. Populate only verified rows from this brief.
6. Add source URLs and verification tags.
7. Add promotion packet checklist.
8. Add outreach template.
9. Link to relevant templates and forms.
10. Run QA checks for unsupported claims.
11. Mark remaining uncertain items as Needs verification.
12. Publish only after checking all links.

13. Known Follow-Up Work

- Verify exact submission deadlines for each channel.
- Verify whether each channel accepts paid ads, free announcements, editorial mentions, or only internal listings.
- Verify current contact person or department for each submission path.
- Find additional individual-business newsletters from businesses listed on the landing site.
- Repeat keyword searches quarterly: subscribe, newsletter, sign up, mailing list, events, calendar, submit event, business directory, get listed, visitor guide, advertising, media kit.
- Add confirmed channel rows only after source URL, proof type, and status tag are recorded.

Appendix: Methodology Language for the Site

This section identifies regional amplifier channels found through source-page review. A channel is listed when public page content shows evidence of a newsletter/signup system, event calendar, event submission pathway, business directory, business listing intake, visitor guide, social media co-op, venue lineup, or municipal update system. Advertising availability, deadlines, pricing, and acceptance rules are not assumed. Users should verify those details directly with each organization.
